FOREWORD.

R. EDMUND NORDHEIM, of Hamburg, has for many years been almost as well-known in this country as on the Continent as an ardent collector and student of coins. The nature of his business often brought him to England, as so many other Hamburg Merchants, so that he is sure to be personally known to quite a number of those who are likely to take an interest in the disposal of his Imperial Roman coins.

So extensive had been his excursions into almost every realm of Numismatics, that when, a short time ago, he purchased a collection of coins that started him in yet another direction, he decided to disband his Roman Imperial Series.

This, which is now being offered, is the outcome of a long period of activity, though, of course, Mr. Nordheim never concentrated his attention exclusively upon it. In the course of collecting he acquired the private cabinet of an Austrian prince, as well as many individual pieces of note, so that we may safely claim that this collection is one of the most interesting and attractive that has been sold in this country for a long while. Attention might be drawn particularly to such unpublished pieces as Nos. 132, 146, 230, 243, 258, 294, 295, 309, 432, and to many very scarce and recherché coins, as Nos. 42, 48, 90, 93, 98E, 124, 148, 153, 154, 161, 181, 182, 191, 192, 193, 194, 201, 236, 244, 263, 279, 395, 477, 506, 527, 535, etc.; or, again, to such magnificent specimens of medallic art as Nos. 33, 55, 94, 157, 357, 401, and 402.

The choice little series of Aurei at the end almost equally claims notice on account of the extraordinarily high standard of condition and rarity, which the owner has set for himself in bringing them together.
